

Geoffrey Chaucer,
From "The Canterbury Tales."
Gaily, rather fast.

THE BUSY LARK.

G. W. Chadwick.

The bu - sy lark, mes - sen - ger of day, Sa - lu - teth
The bu - sy lark, mes - sen - ger of day, . . Sa - lu - teth in her song the mor - row gray; . . And fire - y Phoe - bus ris - eth up so in her song the mor - row gray; . . And fire - y Phoe - bus ris - eth up so bright, That all the ori - ent laugheth at the sight, And with his bright, . . . That all the ori - ent laugheth at the sight, stream - es* dry - eth in the greaves, . . the sil - ver drop - es* honying† on the leaves.
And dry - eth in the greaves, . . the sil - ver drop - es* honying† on the leaves.

* Pronounced as two syllables: stream'-es; drop'-es. † Old English form of hanging.